

Michael Briggs is General Counsel and Senior Vice President for Human Resources at the Mortgage Bankers Association (MBA), where he oversees the association's legal affairs, compliance, and human resources operations. He also oversees the MBA Opens Doors Foundation, a 501(c)(3) foundation that has provided mortgage and rental payment assistance to more than 15,000 families with critically ill or injured children since its inception.

Before joining the MBA, Briggs was an Assistant General Counsel at the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, where he led a team of consumer protection lawyers. Previously, he was in private practice with Gordon Feinblatt LLC, a Baltimore firm where he represented community banks, credit unions, nonbank mortgage lenders and the Maryland Bankers Association. Briggs also served as Chief Legal Officer of America's Community Bankers, a Washington-based trade association. Earlier in his career, he served as Assistant General Counsel for Regulatory Affairs at Bank of America Corporation and as Regulatory Counsel for Barnett Banks.

Briggs currently serves as a vice chair of the Diversity, Equity & Inclusion Task Force of the American Bar Association's (ABA) Consumer Financial Services Committee. He also is a former vice chair of the ABA's Banking Law Committee, and is a member of Women in Housing and Finance, the Exchequer Club of Washington, and ALLRISE DC, an organization focused on gender equity in financial services.
